Mountain.

The electric power line to Manhattan and Round Mountain, for which a preliminary survey was made some time ago from Millers, is now assured and the work of the construction will be started at once. The extending of this line to the northern camps is due to the efforts of Frank Peterson, the prominent mining man of Manhattan, and who has interested the Loftis and Davis company at Round Mountain, in the project. The power company required that a certain amount be advanced to cover in part the cost of construction, and it was for the purpose of signing these

During the latter part of last summer Mr. Peterson invited Deios Campbell, president of the power company, with the entire board of directors out to Manhattan where these gentlemen spent some time investigating the situation for themselves. Upon their return they expressed themselves as being pleased with the outlook for the immediate construction of the transmission lines and since that time Mr. Peterson has been negotiating for the extension of the power. This property has enough ore in sight to keep the mill running full capacity for fifteen years to come. Mr. Peterson is interested in the Wolf mill in Manhattan and left for that camp last night. He will return today and leave tomorrow morning for New York. When the power line is completed Mr. Peterson will immediately start operations in the mill, which is considered one of the best in southern Nevada. During the past summer the values extracted from the ores averages over 99 per cent. Should the enlargement of the mill be demanded it is constructed in such a way that additional stamps can be added without the slightest inconvenience.

The minimum amount of expense for the construction of the line is to be $175,000, and of this amount Mr. Peterson and Loftis and Davis have advanced $25,000, which will be returned to them in monthly installments. Under the terms of the contract the work on the line shall be started at once and it is understood that material has been ordered from the coast which will be taken to Millers where the start will be made. The power will be in Manhattan and Round Mountain by the fifteenth of May, when all consumers will be power to the northern camps will prove of inestimable value in the progress and development work which follows the advent of electricity into a mining camp and the cost of mining and milling will be reduced one-half. While both camps are somewhat surrounded by timber, the fuel question has been a serious one and has retarded the mining industry to a certain extent. This will now be overcome and the different plants will be in a position to resume operations. It is understood that the officials of the power company are considering the advisability of extending
